

Slower Function

Insert is an $O(n)$ operation as it requires all elements at or after the insert position to be shifted up by one. `append`, on the other hand, is generally $O(1)$ and $O(n)$ in the worst case, when more space must be allocated). This explains the substantial time difference.